Our website is extensive and wide ranging. There is a lot of local history and details of notable figures in Malmesbury's past.

The site is very user-friendly and has many links to other useful websites including access to a catalogue of some of the museum's artefacts.

Events at the museum including family days are listed.

We publish and sell a varied collection of booklets, very reasonably priced, on local history. Titles can be purchased at the museum.

For older students there could be the opportunity for work experience or even to become a volunteer.
